Last Report of Undersea Merchantman
Is When She Is Sighted 60 Miles
Up the Bay, OR Tanager Sound;
Overdue. According to Schedule.

By Associated Press.

FORTRESS MONROE, Va., August 2.—Eighteen hours after the German merchant submarine Deutschland sailed from Baltimore 62, her return voyage to Germany she had not been sighted from the Virginia capes or at Hampton Roads, and nothing had been heard from her since 6:30 o'clock this morning when she was sighted off Tanager Sound, about 60 miles up Chesapeake Bay.

Although last night she was said to be making 16 knots, she has been apparently proceeding at a much slower rate of speed. On the trip up the bay after her arrival off the capes, only 17 hours was required for the run from Hampton Roads to Baltimore.

Much surprise was occasioned here by reports brought by passengers on an incoming coastwise steamer that only one Allied warship was on guard today off the capes.

At 2 o'clock the Deutschland had not been sighted at the capes. During the early afternoon a two-hulled warship came near the three mile limit for a few moments and then disappeared.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., August 2.—

The German merchant submarine Deutschland was sighted off Tanager Sound at 6 o'clock this morning.

She was still heading toward the lower bay at a high rate of speed. Tanager Sound is about 76 miles above the capes.

BALTIMORE, August 2.—The sailing plans of the Deutschland were a carefully guarded secret, but when she left Baltimore there was a belief that she would proceed direct to Newport News.

On the other hand, there was an expectation in some quarters that the submarine would seek a quiet cove or inlet somewhere in Lower Chesapeake Bay and there await a favorable opportunity to make a dash through the Allies' blockade off the capes.

STRIKE IS SERIOUSPittsburgh Officials Keep Close Guard on Filtration Plant.

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—The Pittsburgh filtration plant at Asplawall was under police guard today following reports that striking white wings and drivers of the Pittsburgh street cleaning force were inducing filtration laborers to join the strike. A number of men failed to report for work this morning and disquieting rumors were in circulation.

The city council has refused the demands of street men for an increase in wages of 5 cents an hour and Robert Swan, director of public works, has discharged the 1,100 strikers, employing men to take their places. The strikers are members of the American Federation of Labor.

WILSON STANDS PAT.President Not to Urge Woman Suffrage

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, August 2.—President Wilson has not changed his position that the woman suffrage question should be dealt with by the states. It was announced at the White House.

The statement was brought forth by the announcement yesterday of Charles E. Hughes, the Republican nominee, that he favored an amendment to the federal constitution giving the vote to women.

QUEERLY GARBED "PROPHET" PREDICTS A WORLD WAR IN WHICH U. S. WILL TAKE PART

Predicting a world war, in which the United States will soon be a combatant, George Nash, ex-glazier and former Messenger, stopped off in Connellsville several hours today on his way northward to warn the rest of the world against the impending conflict. Nash was clad in a white cloak, white trousers reaching below the knee and a white shirt. His hair is long and flowing and tied back with a piece of common cord. He wears no shoes or stockings. He wears a closely the pictures of Biblical characters, so far as visage is concerned. With him is his small son, Jack Nash, "the youngest prophet that was ever thrown into prison." Nash carries a small white and blue horn and his son a brass bugle. He says the Bible calls on all prophets to blow trumpets.

Nash has been prophesying for many years. In conformance with instruc-

STREET CAR STRIKE
TO BE NATION WIDE*Threatening New York City
First of a Huge Series of Labor Struggles.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—New York state and city authorities are preparing today to deal with a great strike of street railway employees which, it is expected, is to be up virtually the whole street railway service of the city.

Officers of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railwaymen, who are in charge of the efforts to organize the employees in order to enforce a demand for recognition of the union and an increase in pay, said today that they were nearly ready to present their demands to the New York Railway Company, operating most of the surface lines in the borough of Manhattan.

The threatened stop of every car line in Greater New York is to be only first step in a nation-wide strike of street car men in order to win the union's demand for the right to organize everywhere. It was stated today by Louis Fiediger, counsel for the union organizers.

"This is to be a country-wide affair," Mr. Fiediger declared. The organizing of street railway men is progressing rapidly. Attention is to be centered first on New York City.

THOUSANDS DEPORTEDFrench Required to Leave Their Homes on Short Notice.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, August 2.—Poignant details of the deportation at an hour and a half's notice of 25,000 citizens of the French towns of Lille, Roubaix and Tourcoing by the Germans last Easter, are given in a French yellow book, released for publication today.

The German orders were for the people in certain districts of these towns to assemble in readiness for departure at their front doors, which were to be left open, and none was to leave the house before 8 A. M. The orders stated that "all protests will be useless and anyone trying to evade deportation will be pitilessly punished."

"The protest of mayors and other officials went unheeded. A bishop who intervened personally was told by a general, 'You, bishop, shut up and be off.'"

At the beginning of the deportation some girls of the aristocracy were seized, but they were soon released, as were also daughters of those in the houses where German officers were billeted.

EL PASO, Aug. 2.—Two troops of the Eighth Cavalry, under command of Captain William Kelly, Jr., are outfitting the guides and canyons between El Paso, Tex., and Fort Hancock, about 70 miles east of here, in search of bandits.

The cavalry is supported by a battalion of the Twenty-Third Infantry, rushed from El Paso to Fort Hancock early today in response to reports to General George Bell, Jr., commanding the El Paso military district, that bandits in large numbers had crossed the Rio Grande in that vicinity.

WEST PENN PICNIC IS A BIG SUCCESS;
"LATES" AT OAKFORD*Ideal Weather Prevails and
Not an Accident Mars
the Day.*"EARLIES" GO ON THURSDAY

Nearly 3,000 Persons Go to Popular
Westmoreland County Park for the First Day's Outing of the Big Public Service Corporation; The Prizes.

By Associated Press.

If the second day of the West Penn picnic is anything like the success of the first day yesterday, and there is every indication it will be, the 1916 outing will go down in history as the best ever conducted by the company. Close to 3,000 men, women and children journeyed to and from Oakford Park yesterday for the "lates" half of the picnic and they had a wonderful time. The only thing that tended to mar the outing, and it didn't amount to much, was power trouble which caused the cars to run a little uncertainly on the way to Oakford.

There were no accidents of any kind and the "Safety First" and "First Aid" committees had nothing to do but have a good time. The outing was well conducted by the various committees, and the program was carried out as scheduled.

A big feature of the program was the children's carnival. About 3:30 in the afternoon, all of the kiddies on the grounds gathered at the pavilion for a distribution of gay-colored hats, parasols, little toy dogs that squeaked when you squeezed them; a variety of noise-making devices, and candy. Afterward they had a parade through the vacant field, and what a racket they made!

Another new feature was a First Aid demonstration by a team composed of the following men from the main power station: George Blair, G. Condit, P. Dossart, T. Buttermore, S. Komesburg and I. Leighty. J. C. Connell managed the exhibition.

Joe Nirella and his big band played an enjoyable concert in the afternoon and Miss Helen Belle Rush sang several selections.

Among the Pittsburgh officials present were William F. B. and W. B. Keating, vice presidents; C. C. McElreath, auditor; G. G. Bell, manager of car generation; and J. S. Jenks, manager of electric companies. Mr. Jenks reported to Connellsville together with H. R. Keaney and wife later in the evening.

The waiting contest, always a feature of the picnic, was won by Mrs. E. R. Kooser and Harry Connell. The former received a silk umbrella and the latter a fountain pen.

The "earlies" will have their outing tomorrow. The same program will be carried out. A baseball game between teams composed of only those who have not played for at least five years will be a feature. T. B. Donnelly will umpire.

Following are the results of the athletic events of the day.

Baseball throw, prize an electric flat iron, won by Mrs. M. M. Komesburg, of Arona.

Fifty yard dash, prize $2.50 in gold, won by Mary Tucker of McKeesport.

Mothers' guessing contest, prize piece of aluminum ware, won by Mrs. J. G. Cole of Connellsville.

Girls' peanut race, prize box of candy, won by Ruth Harker of Mount Pleasant.

Human burden race, prize box of cigars, won by Norman Tedlow's team.

Fifty yard backward dash, prize pair of cuff links won by C. H. Williams of Uniontown.

Motormen's 100-yard dash, prize, pair of gloves, won by Charles Ritenour of Connellsville.

Conductor's 100-yard dash, prize, pair of gloves won by F. C. Brooks of Greensburg.

General tug-of-war, prize box of cigars, won by team composed of Ed. Shively, Elmer Stahl, C. R. Stoner, Stanley Morris, L. Fletcher, R. W. Eicher, George Harbaugh, N. Tedrow, J. Shaffer, A. R. Piri, E. R. Kooser, R. Rader, C. C. Ritenour, E. P. Ritchey, and "Dad" Albright.

Linemen's tug-of-war, prize, box of cigars, won by E. E. Stahl's team of Greensburg.

Boys' pie eating contest, prize, bathing suit, won by Ernest Tomosky of Arlington Heights.

Boys' penny scramble, prize, a quarter and all pennies captured, won by Andrew Miller of Connellsville.

The party will go from here to Buffalo and thence across New York state to Albany, where the New England tour of 1,000 miles will begin.

FRENCH CAPTURE A GERMAN FORT*Take Powerfully Fortified Work Near Monsen Farm; Trenches Gained
Some Ground.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—North of the river Somme last night the French troops took a powerfully fortified German work between Hienwood and Monsen farm, it was officially announced by the French war department this afternoon.

On the right bank of the river Meuse, north of the fortress of Verdun, there was a violent series of engagements throughout the night at Vaux-le-Chapelle wood and Chenois, expanding to the east as far as to the south of Damloup. After a series of unsuccessful attacks, some with asphyxiating gas, the Germans gained a little ground in Vaux-le-Chapelle wood and at Chenois. During the action the French took prisoners 100 Germans, including three officers.

A Russian reconnoitering party, the statement adds, made a bayonet charge in the Champagne region, dispersing a German detachment.

ITALIANS ARE VICTORIOUS.

ROME, via London, Aug. 2.—The Austrians suffered a severe defeat in Monday's engagement in the Asiolo valley, the war office announced today. Their attacks on the Italian mines at Monte Solungo and Castellato and Mont Cimone were repulsed with extremely heavy losses for the attacking forces the official statement declares.

An Italian aerial squadron dropped four tons of high explosives on the Whitehead torpedo and submarine works west of Fiume, in Hungary, yesterday, seriously damaging the plant, the announcement adds.

HOSPITAL FIRED ON.

PETROGRAD, via London, Aug. 2.—Announcing that attempts made by small German detachments to attack Russian positions on the western front were repulsed by rifle fire, the Russian official statement, issued today, says:

"An enemy aeroplane bombarded a transport containing wounded near Dusheti, on the Vladivostok-Volynsk route, killing one and injuring 20 already wounded men. The same aeroplane also bombarded the divisional hospital in Dusheti, killing one and injuring eight hospital orderlies."

DUTCH SHIP IS SUNK.

LONDON, August 2.—The South Shields Gazette says the Dutch steamship Zealand of 1,293 tons gross, while on her way from a Scottish port to a foreign port, has been sunk by a German submarine after the crew had been ordered to take to the boats.

By Associated Press.

KITTANNING, Pa., Aug. 2.—Miss Nettie Crazezer, 25 years old, a bride of four months, was shot and killed this afternoon by her husband, Andrew Crazezer, 32 years old, a mill worker, following a quarrel in their home in Walnut street. With bullet wounds in her abdomen and right shoulder, Mrs. Crazezer staggered down the stairs and fell into the arms of a neighbor, Mrs. J. A. Kikwood, who heard the shots and ran to the house. Crazezer fled to the county jail, where he surrendered.

"I don't know why I did it, but she made me so mad I just didn't know what I was doing," Crazezer said as he explained to jail authorities why he was surrendering.

Valent Bolash in House No. 152 Gets
$10 Award; George Galatko Wins
Second Prize for Garden and Third for Lawn; Prizes Awarded at Bazaar.

Gardens and lawns at Leisenring No. 1 plant of the H. C. Frick Coke Company were inspected yesterday by D. F. Christner, Harry Dunn and Cyrus Richard of Connellsville, and prizes were awarded as follows:

First prize garden, $10, House 152, occupied by Valent Bolash, miner; second prize garden, $5, House 61, occupied by George Galatko, driver; third prize, $3, House 14, occupied by Robert Stevenson, fireman. Honorarium was given to Houses 55, 57, 53, 64, 87, 90, 156, 150, 151 and 134.

First prize lawn, $5, Mrs. Lewis Olszewsky; second prize, $3, House 85; third prize, $1, House 51, Mrs. George Galatko. Honorarium was given to Houses 67, 71, 23 and 63.

The Galatko family had the distinction of winning prizes for both garden and lawn, their garden being considered second best and their lawn third.

The judges inspected 125 houses and placed a value of $3,675 on the produce grown. The fine appearance of the various houses was favorably commented upon as was the general aspect of the plant.

After the judges had completed their work, Superintendent C. D. Franks conducted them about the entire works pointing out the improvements that had been made in recent years under the direction of the Welfare Department of the Frick Company. Leisenring No. 1 compares favorably with any coke plant in the region, they discovered. It is clean and sanitary and some sections of the village, due to the excellence of the lawns and flowers are actually beautiful. It has a public swimming pool that is in use constantly during the summer, a social hall for meetings and athletic contests and an emergency hospital.

A postoffice building is now being completed near the Union Supply store. In the lobby of this is a public fountain where ice water will be supplied to all. A public fountain is also to be installed near the mouth of the shaft.

Superintendent Franks was roundly congratulated upon the general excellence of the place.

The gardens and lawns at Bitter were inspected Monday and their prizes awarded: First prize for vegetable garden to Wash Ballas, a coke driver; second to Mike Dalley, a coal miner. First prize for flower gardens to John Stewart, a fireman; second to Joseph McBurney, a fireman.

The judges were Skidde Browning, Chad C. Silbaugh and A. E. Junk, all of Franklin township.

While the gardens at this plant are not so good as in former years, owing to unfavorable weather, the number under cultivation is larger than for several years. The committee inspected 77 gardens and placed on them a value of $1,155.

CONNELLVILLE
DAY AT PARK*Big Crowds Anticipated This Afternoon
and Tonight; Nirella's Band a Feature.

Indications are that Connellsville Day at Shady Grove Park will be a big success, and that a large crowd will attend. The West Penn will run double-headers to the park this afternoon and tonight. Many features, provided by Manager R. S. Coyle, are attracting Connellsville people. Fireworks, dancing and athletic events are some of the amusements of the day and Joe Nirella's band will play a long concert.

The Nirella band gave a concert last evening at the band stand here, under the auspices of Manager Coyle, to boost Connellsville Day at the park. One of the largest crowds ever assembled at the band stand heard the Pittsburgh musicians. Joe played several preconcert numbers and followed them with some popular music and novelties. The applause was terrific, the band having to play some of the popular tunes six and seven times.

Miss Helen Belle Rush was the soloist and her sweet soprano voice charmed the big crowd. She sang one number and responded to an encore by repeating the selection.

Dancing will be a feature at Shady Grove tonight, with Nirella rendering the one steps, and Kierle the other dance music.

NO QUARTERS YETNew Fire Truck is Still Housed in Public Garage.

The new $6,250 hook and ladder truck is still housed in the Hyatt & Marsh garage, though the city officials expect to have another place provided for it very soon. The ladder have to be removed from the truck to permit housing it in the garage.

The truck will not be used to answer fire alarms until it is thoroughly tested out and formally accepted from the manufacturers. It is still the property of the American La France Fire Engine Company. Fred E. Schutzbach, the factory expert, will remain here for several days more instructing the firemen how to handle the big machine.

In passing along Main street yesterday afternoon, the truck ran between a trolley car and the Buck roadster of Miss Katherine Frisbee and the smaller car suffered a bad fender.

NOT RAILROAD COP.Captain Ludwig Says His Men Would

Captain E. M. Ludwig of the Baltimore & Ohio special police asserts that it was not one of his men who drew a gun on bathers in the Yough river last Sunday. If anybody did it, he says, it was someone masquerading as an officer, and if such was the case, Captain Ludwig would like to get after him. Furthermore, he asserts, all four officers were on other work that day.

The railroad police are not permitted to draw their arms, Captain Ludwig says, unless it is necessary for protection.

FAYETTE FRUIT PROSPECTS NOT GOOD; PEACH CROP IS POOR, FARM AGENT ASSERTS

There will be few if any peaches picked in Fayette county this season, according to County Farm Agent P. E. Daugherty, who has made a tour of the agricultural sections recently. He says that the warm weather in February following a freezing spell in March effectually blighted the trees.

Apples will run two-thirds of an average crop, the farm agent finds, and other fruits will be a little behind last year.

Mr. Daugherty finds farmers harvesting an exceptionally good crop of hay. Corn is three weeks back, due to late seeding, and the crop will run about the average. The oats crop will be fair. Mr. Daugherty's efforts to lessen the damage caused by oak smut have been very successful. Farmers who treated their seed oats with formalin according to his instructions, lost but one bushel an acre from the smut, while those who

FIRST BARGAIN DAY SETS A NEW
RECORD FOR SALES*Money Plentiful and People

Spend Freely.*BUSINESS IS BRISK TODAY

Second Day Starts Out Well Though
There is No Rush Like That of Yesterday; Merchants Pleased With Liberality of Their Many Patrons.

There never was a bigger Bargain Day business in Connellsville than yesterday. This was the expression of pleased merchants who drew sighs of relief when their stores closed last night. It had been a strenuous day, so strenuous, in fact, that the store men say they do not know what they would have done if the West Penn picnic had not taken several thousand persons to Oakford Park.

There is no way to secure figures as to the volume of sales yesterday, but it is estimated that the total will run at least 25 per cent more than any previous Bargain Day business.

Sales were many and large. This fact was particularly evident. Persons bought the higher priced bargains—articles that though reduced still involved the expenditure of a good-sized sum of money. In other years, when money was not so plentiful, buyers sought the lower priced bargains, and the more expensive goods had to be passed up. Not so this year. The bargain hunters bought good goods.

On top of this came remarkable good business today, the second of the annual bargain days.

The first day's business is always the best but this year business was unusually brisk on the day following. There was a steady buying in all the stores, though not such a rush as the day before. The assortment of bargains was not so good but there were still bargains to be had in many lines and buyers felt well rewarded as they left the stores with well-filled arms.

WILL BE ON JOBBaltimore & Ohio Police Determined to Stop Bathers.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad has not abandoned its idea of prosecuting bathers who cross the tracks at South Connellsville to reach the beach, despite the fact that no one was molested last Sunday, when approximately 2,000 persons splashed about the river. Captain E. F. Ludwig stated that his men were busy elsewhere, but would be on the job next Sunday.

The railroad, it is said, believes that the use of the tracks should be checked because of the risks persons are taking in crawling under and over trains. Captain Ludwig declared that time after time men, women and children have escaped death by a hair as a consequence of their failure to observe reasonable precautions in getting across the rails.

COURT HALTS ERECTION OF A NEW BUILDING BY DUNBAR SCHOOL BOARD

Special to The Courier. UNIONTOWN, August 2.—Upon presentation of a bill in equity today, Judge E. H. Keppel granted a preliminary injunction upon the school directors of Dunbar borough, their architect and a contracting firm now erecting the new school building. The injunction restrains the school directors from using $25,000 which was borrowed as the result of a special bond issue election last May 16 in the construction of a new school building. It is claimed by James T. Barrett, S. J. Gessner, R. M. Liston, G. W. Greenwood and Samuel C. Dowds, the plaintiffs in the action, that the bond issue was authorized for the express purpose of enlarging and repairing the present school building. A hearing is to be held next Saturday.

According to the allegations made, early last spring the school directors of Dunbar, C. E. Gaddis, Harry Smith, Alexander McConnell, Jr., George Wagner and Peter Johnson, adopted a resolution to hold a special election for increasing the indebtedness of the school district. The election resulted in a $25,000 bond issue being approved by a vote of 62 to 31.

It is claimed that the School Board has contracted with J. H. Harmon, an architect of Uniontown and with W. S. Crowe & Son, contractors, for the construction of a new two story four-room building, wholly unconnected with the present building and one-fourth of a mile away from the present building. It is claimed by the plaintiffs that the bond issue was for the express purpose of enlarging and repairing the present building. Architect Harmon, it is said, has prepared plans for a new building and the excavations were begun by the contractors on July 28 for the new building. The plaintiffs are represented by Attorneys Joseph W. Ray, Jr., and McDonald & Gray.

Newcomer of Vanderhill were calling in town Sunday.

Leon Morris, who has been camping with the "S. O. S." Club of Pittsburgh, returned to his Scottsdale home yesterday.

Mrs. Charles Morris of Scottsdale left last evening for Atlantic City, where she will spend a few weeks.

JERSEY CITY PUTS BAN ON MUNITIONS

Railroads Must Not Leave Explosives on Piers; Police Chief's Body is Recovered.

By Associated Press.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., August 2.—Agents of the city commissioners were sent to terminals of all railroads entering this city to put into effect the order of the commission placing a ban on the storage of ammunition in cars upon piers in this city, and upon its shipment through this city to steamers going to Europe.

This action was taken because of the great explosion of ammunition at Black Tom Island Sunday morning. The order becomes effective tomorrow afternoon.

Two more bodies were found today floating in New York Bay within a few rods of the scene of the explosion. One of the bodies was identified as that of Captain Cornelius Leyden, chief of the Lehigh Valley railroad police, and previously reported missing.

The finding and identification of Leyden's body paves the way for the prosecution of those who may be found responsible for the explosion.

PAPER TRUST ATTACKED

Publishers Assort Prices of News Print is Forced Up.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, August 2.—Charges that the price of news print paper has been forced up exorbitantly by a combination of manufacturers were made by publishers and denied by representatives of the manufacturers at a hearing yesterday which concluded an exhaustive inquiry into the subject by the Federal Trade Commission.

Frank P. Glass, vice president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, told the commission he was "morally convinced" there was collusion among the manufacturers and expected to be able by October 1 to present legal proof of it. F. T. Dodge, president of the International Paper Company, declined present prices were due to an enormous increase in demand, and insisted that the manufacturers were not making a fair return on their capital.

The commission undertook the investigation under direction of a Congressional resolution.

SOLDIER FURLOUGHED

Somerset Guardsman Permitted to Return When Mother Dies.

Private John Endsall of Company C, Tenth Regiment, of Somerset, was granted a furlough by Colonel Richard Coulter on Monday to return home for his mother's funeral.

Young Endsall left his mother five weeks ago, apparently in good health. When he received a telegram that she had passed away, he applied to Captain Truxall for permission to return home.

"It would take you three days," said the captain. "The funeral would be over before you got there."

"I could wire them to keep her until I came," was the guardsman's reply.

An appeal to Colonel Coulter secured an immediate furlough for the youth.

B. & O. OPERATORS SEEK MEDIATION

Unable to Agree with Officials Over Wage Demands; Trainmen Vote Strong for Strike.

By Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, August 2.—Future to reach an agreement in their conference over rates of pay and adjustment of working conditions of telegraphers of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, J. N. Davis, vice president of operation, and J. J. Dermody, fourth vice president of the railroad telegraphers' organization, today sent a letter to the United States board of mediation asking the good offices of the federal authorities in adjusting the differences between the company and its employees.

The chief demands of the men are for a flat increase of 15 per cent in the rates of pay, a reduction from 15 hours to nine hours for a day's work in one-truck telegraph offices, and from 10 to nine hours to eight hours in two-truck offices.

Officials of the railroad said the demands would mean an increase of $500,000 approximately, in the yearly payroll expense.

NEW YORK, August 2.—When 260,000 of the 400,000 ballots cast by members of four brotherhoods who are voting on the question of calling a general strike on 255 railroads have been counted at noon today, it was announced that "a preponderant number of the men are in favor of the strike."

STOP THAT ACHE!

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of that pain and lameness! Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Many suffering people have used them and know how effective they are. Here is a typical case.

Edward O'Neal, carpenter, Third st., S Conneltsville, says: "I was in bed from fall until spring about seven years ago, with kidney trouble. My back pained me so severely that I could hardly move without catching hold of something and pulling myself up gradually. My doctor treated me for lameness but he didn't do me any good. Some of my friends recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a supply. The first box relieved me greatly and before I had finished the second box, I was cured."

New Post Toasties

These new corn flakes bear a unique deliciousness because of their self-developed flavor and improved form. The flavor is the true essence of choice, ripe Indian corn. Unlike ordinary, "corn flakes," the New Toasties do not depend upon cream and sugar for their palatability.

Try some dry—they're good that way and the test will demonstrate their flavor. Then try some with cream or rich milk. Note that New Post Toasties are not "chaffy" in the package; and that they don't mush down when cream is added.

New Post Toasties are known by the tiny "bubbles" on each flake, produced by the quick, intense heat of the new process of making. They come in a wax-sealed package that preserve their oven crispness and delightful flavor—the most perfect corn flakes ever produced.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Aug. 2.—William Fish, vice president of the West Penn Railway Company, and Superintendent of Transportation Daniel Durie, went before a committee of the borough council last night, composed of Samuel P. Stevens, Adam Porter and Blaine B. Coldsmith and their secretary, Avery Overholt, at the borough building. Samuel Stevens explained to Mr. Fish that the thought of the people of Mount Pleasant were being treated unjustly in running the single truck car and that possibly some way could be thought of whereby persons going to Latrobe could ride in the lower end of town. The matter was thoroughly threshed out and Mr. Fish stated that he did not know how they could change the Latrobe schedule, or how they could change the Meadow Mill car schedule, and that the best they could do to give them, beginning Friday, a two-truck car for a month, and that this car would have to make $2.50 more per day than the one truck car hauls. At the end of the month Vice President Fish will meet the committee and see whether the two truck car has paid for itself or not.

Like a Boy at 50 Bubbling Over With Vitality—Taking Iron Did It

Doctor Says Nuxated Iron is Greatest of All Strength Builders; Often Increases the Strength and Endurance of Delicate Nervous Folks 200 Per Cent in Two Weeks Time.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and a full vigor, vim and vitality as a young man in fact. A young man he really was notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—Nuxated Iron had filled him with health. At 49 he was in better health than at 16, carefree and nearly all in. Now at 50 a miracle of vitality and his family with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over, iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and natural iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved, who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more nor less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much of what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, it is a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can walk or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times a day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were doing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles. In from ten to fourteen days time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring off months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated. The Nuxated Iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prizefighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the arena, while many another has gone down to ignominious defeat simply for the lack of iron.—E. Sauer, M. D.

NOTE.—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy. In nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days time. It is dispensed in this city by A. A. Clarke and all other druggists.—Adv.

At the Theatres.

SOINSON THEATRE.

"THE LOVE GIRL."—The whimsical little actress, Ella Hall, appears at the Soinson Theatre today in the five reel Bluebird production, "The Love Girl." This is a typical Bluebird photoplay, filled with refreshing interest, sensational scenes and a story that appeals to all types of theatregoers. The photoplay carries first the merit of originality in plot and theme, blind mystics having never before been applied to cupitation on the screen. The pivotal incident in the story is the find of a wealthy woman, who effects the occult as supplied in extravagantly expensive potions by a reputedly murderous. This "Swami" nearly drowns to a disastrous ending a series of episodes that are finally turned against the conspirator through the quick wit and prompt action of a little girl and her playmate. Ella Hall is the "girl" in the case, and she makes the most attractive and lovable little girl imaginable. Her playmate is impersonated by Harry Depp and these two skilful young camera-actors create an atmosphere of childish activities and youthful buoyancy that is sure to be immensely appealing.

"THE BELLE AND THE BELL BOY."—A Victor two reel comedy featuring the comedian, Pat Roney. His falls involve with the cigar counter girl and has some time getting her to marry him. King Baggot appears in "His Own Story," a Big-O drama. "King sitting in the Screen City" tells the director a story. "The Devil Dancers of India," is a powerful educational drama. Tomorrow, Pearl White is shown in the Pathé serial, "The Iron Claw." Friday, the interesting series, "Who's Guilty?"

ARCADE THEATRE.

"AMBITION."—Marian Powers is the wife of Robert Powers, an assistant district attorney, blinded by ambition. He is hopeful that the political boss of the town, John Moore, will nominate him for district attorney. Powers has the backing in his scheme of James Grant, a practical politician, but this is not sufficient to obtain the nomination. While Grant is telling Powers of the boss' decision, Marian enters the room, and Grant suggests that perhaps a woman might induce the boss to change his mind. At the suggestion of her husband Marian goes to the boss' house and pleads for her husband. Powers in an effort to further his political ambition asks the boss to spend a week-end with him. The boss is injured, and while recuperating he and Marian finally confess their love for each other and she pleads with her husband to let her go away. He refuses, telling her that she must not quit with his success almost within his grasp. Marian confesses to her husband her love for the boss. She offers to go away with him, but the boss says that because of his love for her he will not permit this. Marian confesses to the boss that her husband had sent her to visit him the first time and to try to make him love her, and that afterwards she loved him for himself. Powers, hearing the conversation, rushes to Marian as the boss leaves and frantically asks whether she has obtained the boss' promise to nominate him. She upbraid her husband and with a shrug he starts to leave the house, but meets the big boss in the hall. The boss tells him that he is now convinced that he was right in declining to give him the nomination.

In a new Triangle Film Arts production at the Paramount today. He is supported by Bessie Love, Reggie, as impersonated by Fairbanks, is a wealthy athlete with a penchant for adventure in walks of life hitherto unexplored by members of his family, those of the underworld! He sallies forth to a dance hall much frequented by murderous toughs and finds there a little dancer, "straight" in spite of her crooked environment. He determines to make her his very own, but finds that she has another "steady," a gangster. In order to get her away from him he has to beat the fellow up in one of the most glorious scraps ever shown on the screen. Reggie mixes in with the toughs, both singly and in groups. He is now in his element, but love for the little dancer induces him to return to civilization. He provides her with a fortune, tries her love to the utmost and reappears as a Prince Charming at the end. The story is very animated. The personality of Douglas Fairbanks, strong, forceful and enthusiastic, is ever present; the story has been written around this irresistible artist. A Keystone comedy will also be shown. Bruner is said to have fired at Jack Cunningham, an electrician who climbed a pole to turn off the current from the various attractions at midnight last Saturday. The bullet struck and killed Sivitski, a bystander.

The electric company claims that the service lights at the show were to have been turned off at midnight. Bruner, it is said, objected when the electrician climbed a pole to throw off the transformer. A shot was fired and Sivitski fell dead with a bullet through the heart.

WOMAN GIVEN TWO DAYS

To Make Up Her Mind for Surgical Operation. She Re-

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"One year ago I was very sick and I suffered with pains in my side and back until I nearly went crazy. I went to different doctors and they all said I had female trouble and would not get any relief until I would be operated on. I had suffered for four years before this time, but I kept getting worse the more medicine I took. Every month since I was a young girl I had suffered with cramps in my sides and periods and was never regular. I saw your advertisement in the newspaper and the picture of a woman who had been saved from an operation and this picture was impressed on my mind. The doctor had given me only two more days to make up my mind so I sent my husband to the drug store at once for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and believe me, I only took four doses before I felt a change and when I had finished the third bottle I was cured and never felt better. I grant you the privilege to publish my letter and am only too glad to let other women know of my cure."—Mrs. Chas. McGonagall, 3432 Hartsville Street, Phila., Pa.

Schulte, Cub Veteran, Showing Critics He Is Still There

FRANK SCHULTE, the "Cub" veteran outfielder, is hot under the collar. Why? Well, some eastern baseball critic recently said that Frank was ready for the discard and would not be with the Cubs next year. One needs only to watch Schulte in a game or to study his averages to learn that he is far from being all in as a regular player. He is playing the game as well today as he did ten years ago and says so himself. "I do not feel a bit older than I did ten years ago," said Schulte the other day, "and I do not find it any harder to play ball. The game has not advanced so much since that time to make me take a back seat for any younger player, and you will find that I will be well up in the batting averages at the end of the season. I think I am giving the Cubs better baseball than I have for years because we have a manager for whom it is pleasure to work. Tinker, in my opinion, is one of the smartest leaders the Cubs have ever had, with the possible exception of Frank Selee, who was a wonder." Schulte has been with the Chicago team for fourteen years. Picture shows Schulte batting.

BUNKERS NEEDED IN PLANNING LINKS

All Hazards on Long Holes Prevent Possible Threes.

ENGLISH COURSES SHORT.

No Championship Links Have Any Greens 500 Yards Apart—Westward Has Greatest, 542—Hole as Long as It Plays.

Golf clubs planning to lengthen their courses would do well to remember that there is more than mere yardage to the long holes, says an old player. In other words, when building the three shotters always have in mind the contour of the land as well as the thoughts on bunkering schemes, which will give the shots their true value.

As one architect points out, as a rule a championship course possesses several three shot holes, and the bunkering of such a hole is the great consideration, for hazards must be placed to make it impossible for the green to be reached with any sort of a third after either the drive or the second shot has been badly hit. These three shot holes are necessary to provide variety, but there seems no strong reason for the building of a hole of over 550 yards in length.

To be sure, a hole is just as long as it plays, and unusual turf conditions must be considered, but in taking the length of holes generally and analyzing them we must assume that the conditions are normal.

A glance over the plans of the seven championship courses of Great Britain reveals the fact that not one possesses a single hole which measures 500 yards. Westward it has one 512 yards, while St. Andrews possesses two holes of over 500 yards—the fifth of 533 yards and the fourteenth of 516 yards. The twelfth at Prestwick measures 508 yards and the sixteenth at Hoylake 510 yards. There is not a single hole which measures 500 yards at either Muirfield or Deil.

Probably the greatest test of the crack golfer lies in his ability to play his usual game in a strong wind. Aside from the fact that the nerves are somewhat demoralized for some unexplained reason on a windy day, it has its physical aspects too. On the one hand, the player, unless he has a very firm stance, is apt to let the binsts overbalance him and completely ruin the stroke.

In putting allowance must be made for the effect of the wind on the run of the ball. It is surprising how much the pellet is deviated, particularly on green grass, the corrugated surface of the ball offering much resistance. Many men have found it to their advantage to shorten the swing when confronted with an up wind shot. Another stunt sometimes tried, although it takes a fine player to present it properly, consists of playing all shots, even off the tee, in the form of push strokes.

This is done by forcing the hands in slightly in front of the club head and taking a small divot. At the same time the right hip is brought around more than usual, this tending to keep the ball on a low trajectory. As the face of the club is longer in contact with the ball than ordinarily, better direction is obtained.

A common failing when playing up wind is taking the eye from the ball. It is frequently in evidence on windy days and probably is more of an effect than a cause. If the course is fairly well open, with not too many bunkers guarding the greens, the mistake might be allowed to rest and the million substituted, as the low flying ball from this club will be found more advantageous under these weather conditions.

Yankows Bought Kauff For $300. In 1910 the Yankows paid $300 for Benny Kauff. In 1910 he was the most valuable of three players for whom the Giants paid an amount estimated at $25,000.

HERE'S THE TOBACCO YOU WANT

"American Navy" the Tastiest, Longest-Lasting Chew Ever Made

JUICY, SWEET, MELLOW

The men who know most about tobacco chew it—and the best judges of chewing tobacco say that for a solid, "chewy," long-lasting chew there's nothing like American Navy.

American Navy is made of choice, selected whole leaf, in a clean, sanitary factory. The leaf is the same kind as used in good cigars, pressed into plug form, forcing the pure, fruity juice through the entire plug, and not permitting a single drop of it to escape.

One chew of American Navy plug is enough to get your O. K. Such savory flavor you never tasted before—such sweet, juicy enjoyment you never found in any other chew.

Your dealer has American Navy in 5c and 10c cuts. Try it.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH BASEBALL?

Looks as if National Pastime Is Losing Its Grip.

ATTENDANCE ON DECLINE.

Crowds at Big and Small League Parks Growing Smaller—Fans Take Baseball With Their Coffee—Autos and Movies Bust Into Gate Receipts.

Baseball as a drawing card is on the decline. It still has a tremendous following and always will have, but the turnstiles generally never will register the same high figures as formerly.

There is no diminution of the number who retain their interest in the game, but many of those who formerly were regular patrons are now "newspaper fans" and take their baseball along with their coffee at the breakfast table. Baseball always will be a major sport, but the attendance of half a decade ago will not be duplicated.

Some attribute the comparatively small attendance throughout the country to the big Federal league, which unquestionably worked a vast amount of harm to the game.

Some experts are inclined to attribute it to golf, the movies, the automobile and the growing tendency of the average woman and man not to get excited about anything, but especially to the "motor" stuff.

The "motor" stuff is on the decline. Players are not idolized as formerly, and managers have lost their magic sway, speaking in the large. As for club owners, they can hope for no lasting renown or even ephemeral glory. When anything is accomplished the men under them get all the credit.

Of all the men who have owned clubs in the major leagues Charles Comiskey alone is well known, and Comiskey rose from the ranks. A wonderful player, a clear headed, competent business man and a genuine sportsman, seeking no unfair advantage and granting none he is richly deserving of the distinction.

Baseball, since soon after the civil war was the country's leading professional sport, entered its greatest period of prosperity in 1906. This continued with unprecedented crowds and interest until the flood tide was reached between 1910 and 1913. There was a slight, although hardly discernible, lessening in interest from 1913 on until 1914 it became so marked as to attract attention. Many attributed this to the Federal league, and this doubtless was a factor, but hardly accounted for the wanting attendance in the minor leagues, far removed from the center of turmoil.

In fact, there has been nothing abrupt about the reduced admissions recorded by the turnstiles. This reduction was gradual—at first hardly perceptible and then painfully noticeable.

Seeking a sane solution, one needs but to turn to golf, the movies and the automobile.

The ludicrous golf germ has inserted itself into the system of many of our well known sportsmen who formerly were numbered among the first class rooters. In every city of the circuit there are several hundred of these former conscientious patrons of the ball games who now get out each afternoon and chase themselves around the links. Instead of holding down a soft seat and waiting for somebody to swat the pill they get out themselves and earnestly strive to connect with a marble set on an ant hill.

Then many a young man who once took his best girl to the ball games compromises and saves our fare by going to the movies and witnessing the "Horror of Horrors" or something else equally horrible to be obtained for from 5 to 15 cents.

However, the decline in baseball patronage may be attributed mainly to the festive and ubiquitous auto. It has affected some cities more than others. Formerly the average guy went to the ball game on his day off in his car. Now there was no other moderate priced attraction. Now the same guy owns a driver, and if he also has the price of a gallon of gasoline in his pocket or the mountains for his and his.

Baseball as sports go always will be a leader and at times will draw enormous crowds, but can hardly hope for a return to its former glories. Therefore the next best thing would seem to be for it to adjust itself to the changed conditions, meeting the situation sane ly and logically.

NO TOUCHDOWN ON FUMBLE.

Should Not Be Allowed, in Opinion of Coach Zupke.

C. Robert Zupke, the University of Illinois coach, does not believe that a touchdown should be made by recovering a fumble. If puts too high a premium, he maintains, upon holding the ball. He says: "I believe in the goal kick, but I think the defense should have a better chance to block it and therefore should be allowed to line up ten yards in front of the play. I do not know whether this is simply an erratic line of mine but why should a man make a touch down because of a fumble?"

"Is it not enough of a penalty to give the defensive the ball where it is fumbled? While I recognize that holding the ball is one of the fundamentals of the game, I do not believe the man should secure a touchdown, the penalty for dropping the ball being losing it to the opponents."

Jones Shouldn't Switch Sides. St. Louis fans and scribes went wild over the George Foster on the mound every fourth day and on first base when he is not pitching. Sisset is of too much value to the Browns to switch him about, and most likely both his pitching and his hitting would be affected if Jones did not hand him properly.

THE COURIER has the most extensive staff of correspondents. Every important community in Fayette, Westmoreland and Somerset counties has a representative.

THE COURIER offers its readers as many special features as any other newspaper, and more than most. The list includes such distinguished names as Walt Mason, George Fitch, Voight and Sterrett, the comic artists; and other specialists in the field of literature, art and photography.

THE COURIER is the only newspaper in a Pennsylvania town the size of Connellsville which maintains its exclusive correspondent at Washington.

Summed up briefly, THE COURIER spends more money on its news department than any two Fayette county newspapers.

That tells the story why THE COURIER is Connellsville's biggest and best newspaper. It is without a real competitor in its field.

FLAHERTY WAS TAKING NO CHANCES ON LOSING.

A few years ago Pat Flaherty, one time Louisville pitcher, was twirling in the Southern association. Pat's arm was about gone, but he had two valuable assets—a good head and a great motion toward first base, with which he often caught runners napping off the bag.

He had a poor team behind him, and in one game they made a number of errors which gave his opponents three runs but when the last inning rolled around Pat's team was leading, 4 to 3. Flaherty was determined to win that game, and he didn't intend to take any chances on the fielders booting the ball. He passed the first man up and then picked him off first base with a snap throw. Then he passed the second man and picked him off, and the third batter was also given a base and caught napping, thus ending the game.

GEORGE FOSTER'S BIG FEAT.

Boston's Stirling Pitcher's No Hit, No Run Game Remarkable.

George Foster's no run, no hit game pitched recently for the world's champions was remarkable in that out of the twenty-seven putouts necessary to retire the team, eighteen were on fly balls.

Three of the men struck out and six died at first. One of the strikeouts was an assist by Carriann. Nothing that looked like a hit came during the entire game and the only New Yorker to reach first base did so on passes of which Foster gave three.

But one man reached second. Nunamaker, on a pass and a sacrifice bunt. Nunamaker and Magee were the only men left on bases, drawing passes in the eighth.

RICE CAN'T SEE GOLFERS.

Coach of Columbia's Navy Regarders Sport With Little Tolerance.

Jim Rice has a personal pride in every good sculler, and he has a healthy respect for a football player; but, according to his lights, golfers are peculiar in general and irritating in particular. "The idea of calling those fellows athletes!" snorted the Columbia coach. "A couple of high rollers imitate some Scotch and then adjourn to a tea table with some silly sticks and aim at a little ball. The fellow that hits it—he wins!"

Bob Gardner, who broke the world's record at pole vaulting between winning two national amateur golf championships, was a fair sample of a good athlete, and the average golf professional would be capable of holding his own with most scullers and stars of the gridiron. Of course it is necessary to hit a golf ball in order to win the match, but there is such a thing as being too successful. The man who hits it the least number of times in the round usually gets the larger share of honors.

EVANS AFTER ANOTHER TITLE.

Open Golf Champion After Amateur Championship at Merion.

Now that Chick Evans has won the national open title, he will make a determined bid for the national amateur championship at Merion to establish an American precedent for holding both titles at the same time. This has never been accomplished on this side of the water and only on one occasion abroad.

John Ball, the perennial amateur champion of Great Britain, won the amateur championship at Hoylake in 1890 and the open championship at Prestwick. The nearest approach to such a feat in this country occurred when Outmet won the open title in 1913 at Brookline and the amateur championship in 1914 at Elmhurst.

Giants Have Two College Stars.

In Charley (Pie) Way of Yale and George Smith of Columbia the Giants have two leading college pitchers. Both are right handers. Way is a spitball pitcher and all around athlete. Smith is not so famous, but in college circles he has been highly regarded.

Albion was a tall, slender, swarthy man, with a face that seemed to be made of leather. He was dressed in a simple, rugged outfit, and he looked like a man who had seen many hardships. He was standing in a clearing, looking out over a vast, open landscape. The sun was low in the sky, and the light was golden. He was alone, and he seemed to be in deep thought.

CHAPTER VIII.

I Dofy Cassion.

Our progress was slow against the swift current of the St. Lawrence, and we kept close to the overhanging bank, following the guidance of the leading canoe. We were the second in line, and no longer overcrowded, so that I had ample room to rest at ease upon a pile of blankets, and gaze about me with interest on the blinding scene.

Ahead of us, now sweeping around the point like a wild bird, amid a shower of spray, appeared the advance canoe. As it disappeared I could distinguish D'Artigny at the stern, his coat off his hands, snatching a puff of smoke. Above the point once more and in smoother water, I was aware that he turned and looked back, shading his eyes from the sun. I could not but wonder what he thought, what jostled his suspicion had come to him, regarding my presence in the company. In some manner I must keep him away from Cassion—my, and from Chevet—until opportunity came from me to first communicate with him.

Instantly my hand rested back against the pile of blankets, the glint of sunshine along the surface of the water vanished as my lashes fell, and, before I knew it, I slept soundly. I awoke with the sun in the western sky, so low down as to peep at me through the upper branches of trees lining the bank. Behind us stretched a space of straight water, and one canoe was close, while the second was barely visible along a curve of the shore. Ahead, however, the river appeared vacant, the leading boat having vanished around a wooded bend. My eyes met those of Cassion and the sight of him instantly restored me to a recollection of my plan—nothing could be gained by open warfare. I permitted my lips to smile, and noted instantly the change of expression in his face.

"I have slept well, monsieur," I said pleasantly. "For I was very tired."

"Is the boat for a boat voyage, assuming his old manner, but now the day is nearly done."

As we skirted the extremity of shore I saw the opening in the woods, and the gleam of a cheerful fire and green grass. The advance canoe swung half hidden amid the overhanging roots of a huge pine tree, and the men were busily at work ashore. As we moved into the bank, our sharp bow was grasped by waiting Indians and drawn safely ashore. I reached my feet, stiffened, and scarcely able to move my limbs, but determined to land without aid of Cassion, whose passage forward was blocked by Chevet's huge bulk. As my weight rested on the edge of the canoe, D'Artigny swung down from behind the chief, and extended his hand.

"If I seemed hasty," he exclaimed. "It was more because I was blocked by that bear of a Chevet yonder, and it angered me to have this young gamecock ever at hand to push in. What think you were employed for, follow—an enquire of dames? Was there not work enough in the camp yonder, that you must be testing your fancy guesses every time a boat lands?"

There was no mild look in D'Artigny's eyes as he confronted him, yet he held his temper, recalling my plea, no doubt, and I hastened to step between and furnish him excuse for silence.

"Surely you do wrong to blame the young man, monsieur, as but for his aid I would have slipped yonder. There is no cause for hard words, nor do I thank you for making me a subject of quarrel. Is it my tent they erect yonder?"

"Ay," there was little gracefulness to the tone, for the man had the nature of a bully. "Twice my thought that it be brought for your use; and if Monsieur d'Artigny will consent to stand aside, it will give me pleasure to escort you thither."

The younger man's eyes glanced from the other's face into mine, as though seeking reassurance. His hat was instantly in his hand, and he stepped backward, bowing low.

"The wish of the lady is sufficient," he said quietly, and then stood again erect, facing Cassion. "Yet," he added slowly, "I would remind monsieur that while I serve him as a guide, I am no volunteer, and I am also an officer of France."

"Of France? Pahl of the renegade La Salle?"

"France has no more loyal servant, Monsieur Cassion, in all this western land—nor is he renegade, for he holds the fillets of the king's command."

"Field it—yes; under Frontenac, but not now."

"We will not quarrel over words yet not even in Quebec was it claimed that higher authority than La Barre's had led to reveal. Louis had never interposed, and it is Do'nty, and not De Bangis who is in command at St. Louis by royal order. My right to respect of rank is clearer than your own, monsieur, so I beg you curb your temper."

"You threaten me?"

"Not we who live in the wilderness do not talk, we act. I obey your orders, do your will, on this expedition, but as a man, not a slave. In all else we stand equal, and I accept insult from no living man. 'Tis well that you know this, monsieur."

The hat was back upon his head, and he had turned away before Cassion found answering speech.

"Monsieur," I said, drawing his attention to my presence. "Tis of no interest to me your silly quarrel with Monsieur d'Artigny. I am weary with the boat journey, and would rest until food is served."

I walked beside him among the trees and across the patch of grass to where the tent stood against a background of rock. D'Artigny had disappeared, although I glanced about in search for him, as Cassion drew aside the tent flap, and peered within. He appeared pleased at the way in which his orders had been executed.

"Tis very neat, indeed, monsieur," I said pleasantly, glancing inside. "I owe you my thanks."

"Twice brought for my own use," he confessed, encouraged by my graciousness. "For, as you know, I had no previous warning that you were to be of our party. Please step within."

would be after if I could have word with Chevet. A soldier brought me food, and when he returned for the thing I made him promise to seek my uncle and send him to me.

My only faith in Hugo Chevet rested in his natural resentment of Cassion's treachery relative to my father's fortune. He would feel that he had been cheated, deceived, deprived of his rightful share of the spoils.

I had been alone for an hour, already convinced that the soldier had failed to deliver my message, when my uncle finally emerged from the shadows, and announced his presence. He appeared a huge, shapeless figure, his very unattractiveness yielding me a feeling of protection and I arose and joined him. His greeting proved the unattractiveness of his mind.

"So you sent for me—why? What has happened between you and Cassion?"

"No more than occurred between us yonder in Quebec when I informed him that I was his wife in name only," I answered quietly. "Do you blame me now that you understand his purpose in this marriage?"

"How know you the truth of all you have said?" he asked. "Where learned you of this wealth?"

By overhearing conversation while hidden behind the curtain in La Barre's office. He spoke freely with his aide and later with Cassion. It was my discovery there which led to the forced marriage and our being sent with this expedition.

"You heard alone?"

"So they thought, and naturally believed marriage would prevent my ever hearing witness against them. But I was not alone."

"Upon what?" Another heard?"

"Yes, the Sieur d'Artigny."

Chevet snatched my arm, and in the glare of the fire I could see his excitement pictured in his face.

"Who? That lad? You were in hiding, then, together? And did he realize what was afoot?"

"That I do not know," I answered, "for we have exchanged no word since. When my presence was discovered D'Artigny escaped unseen through the open window. I need to meet him again that these matters may be explained, and that I may learn just what he overheard. It was to enlist your aid that I sent for you."

"To bring the lad here?"

"No; that could not be done without arousing the suspicion of Cassion. The two are already on the verge of quarrel. You must find some way of drawing the commissaire aside—not tonight, for there is plenty of time before us, and I am sure we are being watched now—and that will afford me opportunity."

"But why may I not speak him?"

"You! He would think you were likely to talk with him. A sweet message you sent him in Quebec."

"I was drunk, and Cassion asked if of me."

"I thought as much," the coward makes you pull his chestnuts from the fire. Do you give me the pledge?"

"Ay! although 'tis not my way to play sweet when I should enjoy to wring the fellow's neck. What was it La Barre said?"

"That just before he died my father's property was restored to him."

Dynamite Explosions Cause Death and Property Loss in New York

1. guarding office of J. P. Morgan & Company after explosion; 2. burning ammunition barge; 3. freight car wrecked by explosion; 4. nurses on Ellis Island, with shells picked up on island.

Dynamite, cellulose and shrapnel exploding shook New York City to bedrock, shattering windows and doing other damage. Black Tom, a peninsula on the Jersey City side of upper New York bay, where for days and weeks munition shipments for Europe have been piling up, erupted, hurling whole cases of shrapnel half a mile and bombarding the harbor, Ellis Island and Jersey City with shot, shell and debris. The property loss is estimated at $25,000,000; three lives lost.

until we return to Quebec. I am not vain yet I am not altogether ill to look upon, nor shall I permit the hardships of this journey to affect my attractiveness. I shall fight him with his own weapons and win. He will beg and threaten me, and I shall laugh. He will love me and I shall laugh. There will be jealousy between him and D'Artigny, and to win my favor he will confess all that he knows. Tonight he seeks somewhere yonder, already beginning to doubt his power to control me."

"You have quarreled?"

"No—only that I asserted independence. He would have entered this tent as my husband, and I forbade his doing so. He stormed and threatened, but dare not venture further. He knows me now as other than a weak girl, but my next lesson must be a more severe one. 'Tis partly to prepare that I sent for you, I ask the loan of a pistol—the smaller one, to be concealed in my dress."

"You would kill the man?"

"Pooh! small danger of that. You may draw the charge if you will. For him to know that I possess the weapon will protect me. You do not grasp my plan?"

He shook his head gloomily, as though it was all a deep puzzle to him, yet his great hand held forth the pistol, the short barrel of which gleamed wickedly in the fire glow as I thrust it out of sight.

"Tis not the way I front enemies," he growled stubbornly, "and I make little of it. Mon dieu! I make them talk with these hands."

"But my weapons are those of a woman," I explained, "and I will learn more than you would with your brute strength. All I ask of you now, Uncle Chevet, is that you keep on friendly terms with Monsieur Cassion, yet repeat nothing to him of what I have said, and gain me opportunity for speech alone with Monsieur d'Artigny."

He growled something indistinctly in his beard, which I interpreted as assent, but I watched his great form disappear in the direction of the fire, my own mind far from satisfied, the man was so lacking in brains as to be a poor ally, and so obstinate of nature as to make it doubtful if he would long conform to my leadership. Still it was surely better to confide in him to the extent I had than permit him to rage about blindly and in open hostility to Cassion.

Facts Versus Fallacies

FACT is a real state of things. FALLACY is an apparently genuine but really illogical statement or argument.

THE FALLACY that Prohibition prohibits is once more clearly proven by the dispatch which follows, printed in a Philadelphia paper on July 15th, 1915, which was sent from Mount Gretna, where the Pennsylvania State Militia was encamped.

The article was headed "PROHIBITION IS BLAMED," and is as follows:

"LINE officers who came directly in contact with the men are inclined to blame the unusual amount of disorder among the soldiers outside the regimental lines on the prohibition of the company canteens, by which many companies in former camps have been accustomed to replenish their company treasuries."

"THEY say that with beer in the camp, the men were more content to remain in camp and few ever became intoxicated. With beer forbidden in the camp, the men range at large more, the spirit of mischief gets abroad, there are conflicts with civilians and when the men find liquor of any kind, knowing that they cannot get any after they get back to camp, they proceed to take too much while they have the chance."

ONCE more does this FACT become manifest—that if we take from men the lawful right to indulge in what they consider their unquestioned privilege, then they will go to extremes to exercise that right, in spite of laws and regulations to the contrary.

THIS year, with Prohibition imposed, the article holds that there was an "unusual amount of disorder among the soldiers," whereas, formerly at Mt. Gretna, when alcoholic stimulants were not forbidden among the soldiers, "few ever became intoxicated," to quote the dispatch.
